

GOOD ARCHITECTURE - STUNNING IMAGES

introduction

The decision to start my own firm was a very good decision. Now I could work not only as an architect but also as a photographer. For architecture. An old passion, which has finally been incorporated in my daily routine. Actually, it's a brilliant combination. Buildings and houses takes months or years to be built, a photo-shoot one day to be delivered. Of course being an architect helps to shoot the right frame, or was it my photographers eye that helped me become an architect? When I'm working on a design I think about the picture and I analyze a design when I look at a project: what's its meaning, function and setting. I also pay attention to the proportions, structures, materials, colors and of course light. Light is what photography is about. It makes it possible to capture the colors, materials, structures and proportions to show the setting, function and meaning of a project. My drive and value is the experience when you behold a stunning image.
